

The Jenkins School: A Case for Support

Throughout its vibrant history, The Jenkins School has crafted a high-quality early childhood curriculum and enriched the lives of hundreds of families.

Although a member of the Millersville University community since the 1990s, the school found itself needing a new home in 2009. To everyone's delight, a new home was found at Holy Spirit Lutheran Church in Lancaster. While the relocation was a change for the better in many ways, the costs of moving created a substantial debt.

A call to action for all fans of The Jenkins School!

Your gift will help to build a bridge to the future for The Jenkins School. We ask you to consider the most generous gift that you can! Gifts of all sizes will be gratefully accepted. You may also choose to make a pledge with payments over a three-year period.

This effort will truly be "Bridging the Gap" between a distinguished past and a bright and secure future for our Jenkins School. The results of a successful campaign will not only lead the school through a short-term cash flow problem, but will also enable long-term opportunities for students, families, and teachers through financial aid, updated technology, and a new endowment.

Thank you for your consideration and support!

BRIDGING the GAP

Why is the Board launching a Capital Campaign for the first time in the history of the school?

- 1 The Jenkins School has a new, bright home and there are some significant costs associated with the move off of the Millersville University campus.
- 2 The School seeks to grow in size and service in the next two years, and to offer financial aid to families.
- 3 The School seeks donations of funds, new computers, and software to add up-to-date technology to its curriculum.
- 4 The School seeks to eliminate all of its debt to the bank and the structured debt owed to Millersville University.
- 5 The School wants to establish a permanent endowment to ensure a stable and predictable financial future.

In the coming days and weeks, volunteers will be contacting all current and former families and alumni to support this effort. To learn more, volunteer, or make a pledge, please contact:
